

Christmas In July 2010

We just made Christmas in July as we enjoyed our gathering on 31st July at the Shed.

The fire blazed and smoked all evening, the food was tasty and plentiful, the talk was constant and enjoyable.

The kids spent their time running off the energy they always seem to have, and the adults enjoyed the lay-back time with friends and fellow travellers.

A certain jolly fellow arrived and distributed more sugar to all.

The evening gradually came to an end, very late.

Sunday saw the continuation of the chatter after a slow start to the day. More food, cleaning up, packing up, some time for more work on the land, some time for driving around the land, and, eventually, time to leave a patch of paradise.

Some of us made it out easily, others decided to detour around the mud only to sink into the mire beside the road and need the help of fellow members to find the solid ground again.

Thanks to all involved in putting on a great weekend, the working bee outside (both Saturday and Sunday), the kitchen working bee to prepare and serve the great food, the cleanup crew for the tidying up afterwards.
